Captain Paul Yep's Message

Wednesday, June 14, 2017

Recently, several victims have reported that they were scammed out of up to thousands of dollars from fraudulent phone callers.

Here are some common consumer phone and computer scam scenarios:

IRS Scam

The scam artist calls and pretends to be an official from the IRS. The caller may say you have overdue taxes and an arrest warrant has been issued or will be issued. You must pay with a pre-paid debit card/gift card or wire transfer money immediately to avoid being arrested.

The IRS:

- Will never demand immediate payment via gift card or wire transfer payment.
- Will not call about taxes owed without first mailing a bill.
- Will give you the opportunity to question or appeal the amount owed.
- Will not threaten to bring in local police or other law enforcement groups to have you arrested for not paying.

PG&E Scam

The scam artist calls and claims that your PG&E bill was past due and you have a few minutes to pay, otherwise the crew outside will turn off your power. The caller demands you to go to a store and purchase pre-paid cards and provide the identification numbers printed on the card.

PG&E:

- Will not demand immediate payment via gift card or wire transfer payment.
- Any concern of legitimacy, contact PG&E directly.

Mystery Shopper Scam

A pop-up window appears on your computer screen offering mystery shopper jobs. Here's an example: You'll be asked to provide some personal information to get started. They will send you a cashier's check for $1,500.00 and you are instructed to deposit the check to activate your employment. You are told to keep $300.00 as advanced payment to cover initial expenses and to wire back the remainder of the money.

Mystery Shopper:

- Never wire money to someone you don't know.
- Never deposit a check from someone you don't know.

Officers Vincent Busalacchi and Minh Du were presented with a Public Safety Recognition Award from Cathay Post #384.

Citizens came to Central Station to report a lost dog with a leash wandering around on Powell and Vallejo Streets. Officer Collins found the dog and brought him back to the station. The dog was given water and hung out at Central Station until Animal Care and Control came to get him.
